There are certain data limitations in this report due to the significant variability in how states report enrollment data. Where possible, we report total Medicaid enrollment for all ages and groups combined and total child enrollment in Medicaid separately. However, some states provide limited categories or do not clearly describe the populations included in their reports. For example, states may be report adults, children, and aged, blind, and disability as three categories but it is not clear whether children who are blind and disabled are included in the count for children or in the disabled group.

Classifying 19-20 year-olds can be difficult. If a state is a non-expansion state and reports 19-20 year old enrollment data, the counts are included under child enrollment. If a state is an expansion state and we are able to confirm that the state has elected to cover 19-20 year-olds as children in its state plan, we include them in the child count. If we are unable to confirm if an expansion state has elected to cover 19-20 year-olds in children's Medicaid, 19-20 year-olds are not included in the child count. Some states, like Indiana, show 19-20 year-olds under three groups, including their adult expansion population. In these cases, we include only 19-20 year-olds that are not part of the expansion group in the child count.

Some states only report enrollment in managed care plans; these states are noted.

The continuous eligibility and other maintenance of effort provisions in the Families First act applies to Medicaid and CHIP-funded Medicaid expansion groups (known as M-CHIP) but not separate CHIP programs (35 states). We do not include enrollment from separate CHIP programs in either the combined or child counts unless the state includes CHIP and does not report it separately. States where separate CHIP data is included are noted.
